The German Institute for Food (DIL) shows outstanding sustainability ratings for insects in the life cycle assessment

KEJO is committed to sustainable ingredients. This is why we have developed our range of Insect Fat products.

We have replaced ingredients derived from beef tallow with a “planet care” alternative, while ensuring the health and welfare of wild birds.

The answer lies in insect lipids (fats), because insects are part of the natural diet of wild birds and are a valuable source of nutrients that support their healthy growth and development. We believe this to be the most logical and environmentally friendly revolution in wild bird care.

Our aim is to harness the essential nutrients found in insects from clinically farmed Black Soldier Fly Larvae. We work with the best in this industry to scale this nutritional food source and add it to our already popular range. We believe we have found the best solution to this goal in this line.

WHY WE USE INSECT-BASED LIPID

- The sustainable alternative to beef tallow!
- Insect lipids are in balance with nature!
- Clean fat product - guaranteed free from contaminants!
- Excellent digestibility!
- Packed with energy for birds!
- Better functional nutrition due to the high content of lauric acid in BSFL fat.
